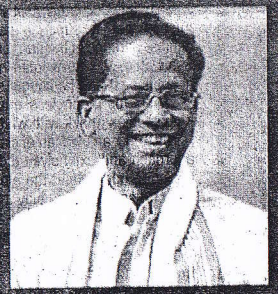
DISE Week

(9th October 2012 – 16th October 2012)

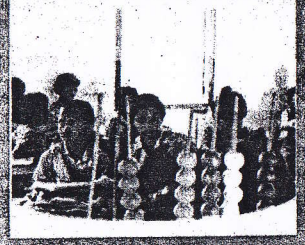


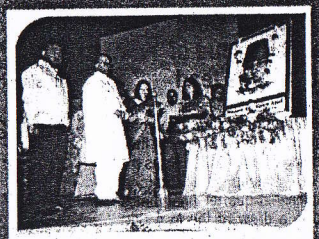
Sri Tarun Gogoi
Hon'ble Chief Minister

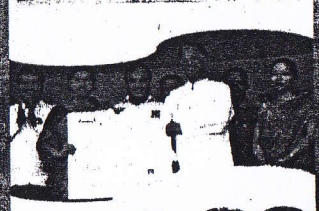
Dr. Himanta Biswa Sarma
Hon'ble Education Minister

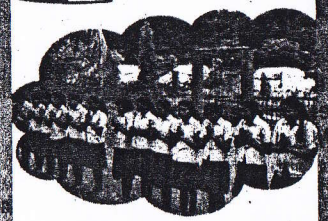
In view of the Right to Education Act 2009 requirements, Government of Assam has decided from this year onwards to have unified DISE (District Information System for Education) to collect data from Class I – Class XII through collaboration of Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan with Rashtriya Madhyamik Shiksha Abhiyan.

For proper planning and successful implementation of any educational programme, effective monitoring and efficient information system are very essential. The District Information System for Education (DISE) as a single Data Base System provides various school-specific key indicators viz., pupil-teacher ratio, student-classroom ratio, gross enrolment ratio, net enrolment ratio, schools with boy's and girl's toilet, school building, drinking water facility, boundary wall, proportion of teachers, drop-out rate, retention rate, student enrollment for providing free text books, uniforms, mid-day meal, etc. making good quality education possible.









DISE Week is being celebrated from 9th October -16th October 2012 to create awareness amongst the mass and all concerned are requested to cooperate to ensure proper and accurate collection of information. The concerned school/college authorities (from Class I – XII) are requested to submit the DISE information in the prescribed Data Capture Format (DCF).

Together let us implement Right to Education Act 2009 for serving the best interests of children and thereby serving the best interests of all humanity.
